The HEARING CLINIC

"We care about your hearing!"

18 CHURCH ST., Georgetown (905) 873-6642

Hearing loss can occur at any age. It is invisible, usually painless, and often develops so slowly that you are not aware that your hearing is failing until everyone starts to complain. Many hearing problems can be prevented or treated, if detected at an early stage. Due to technological advances, hearing aids are virtually undetectable to the eye and yet are able to help the vast majority of sensori-neural hearing problems.

Approximately 22 million individuals in North America are affected, to some degree, by hearing loss. About 10% of people over the age of 65 have hearing problems significant enough to interfere with conversation. For many older adults, social contacts are reduced already due to retirement, living alone or far away from family, or the death of friends or spouse. A hearing loss often compounds the sense of isolation.

A Certified Hearing Instrument Practitioner such as CORY SOAL: R.H.A.D. at THE HEARING CLINIC can provide an evaluation as it pertains to your individual needs. A corrective hearing aid, if required, can be suggested from the wide selection of products from which to choose at THE HEARING CLINIC. You can be assured of service there as well, in addition to replacement batteries, and related products.

Numerous people who have a hearing problem simply do not want to admit it to themselves or others around them. The staff at THE HEARING CLINIC understand this reluctance, but are also aware of the tremendous benefits of this non-surgical remedy. They offer a private consultation at their wheelchair accessible office or at your residence. Call for information.
