

Bruce Trail Association hosts hike weekend

The Toronto Bruce Trail Club, which represents Halton Hills, is holding its annual Toronto End-to-End Challenge this weekend, Sept. 26-27.

Since its inception in 1982, the two day end-to-end hike of the Toronto section of the Bruce Trail has attracted hundreds of hikers from all over the province, says Membership director Grant Leigh. Hikers are bused to either end of the Toronto section of the Bruce Trail and then walk back to their cars parked at the central location, the Limehouse Conservation Area (at the ball park.) There are numerous checkpoints enroute offering refreshments and encouragement.

This year the club is offering a special one day end-to-end challenge to those who attempt the entire Toronto section (Kelso to Boston Mills Rd.)— about 50 km.

The Toronto Bruce Trail Club will have a display set up on the trail just inside the entrance to the Limehouse Conservation Area. Hikers and local residents interested in finding out more about the Bruce Trail Association can find out about the benefits of joining, how the hiking program works, as well as opportunities to help volunteers to preserve and maintain the trail and the Niagara Escarpment.
