

Local MPP's private member's bill will establish Holocaust Memorial Day

Through a private member's bill Halton North MPP Ted Chudleigh is attempting to establish a Holocaust Memorial Day, Yom ha-Shoah, in Ontario.

Bill 66 passed second reading last week and Chudleigh expects it to become law before Christmas.

The legislation recognizes all peoples who have suffered state-sponsored genocide and establishes a memorial day for Ontario coinciding with the Jewish Holocaust Memorial Day, Yom ha-Shoah. The day is determined by the lunar calendar and will next fall on Tuesday, April 13 1999.

Chudleigh said the bill stems from his interest in history and his attempt to make an impact on the current situation in the Balkans.

"You can't follow the history of western civilization without including Jewish people. Our histories are locked together," said Chudleigh.

TED CHUDLEIGH

"The Holocaust was perhaps the largest genocide in the history of mankind. We can commemorate the Jewish holocaust and use it to focus attention on other genocides including events in the Balkans."

"Citizens of a multicultural Ontario need to understand the enduring and profound lessons these events teach and see the consequences of ignoring them. The first lesson is, never again," said Chudleigh.

When Chudleigh spoke in the Ontario legislature about the bill he remembered the heroism of Raoul Wallenberg, Swedish ambassador to Hungary during the Second World War, who saved the lives of more than 100,000 Hungarian Jews.

Chudleigh said the Jewish community supports the memorial day.
