... Lend Me Your Ears

By Cory Soal R.H.A.D.

A diminished social life is one of the most difficult aspects of age related hearing loss. Many people avoid drawing attention to their hearing loss by having fewer social contacts when it becomes difficult understanding what is being said.

The result is in altered and lonely existence that family and friends may mistake for dementia.

Learning new strategies to cope with hearing loss could go a long way to restoring confidence and improving communication. The Hearing Clinic recommends the following: Inform people of the hearing loss so they may modify their speech; eliminate background noise; watch the speaker carefully and sharpen natural lip-reading abilities; ask the speaker to repeat what was said if necessary, and above all else: Have your hearing thoroughly tested and properly fit with one of today's modern hearing instruments. Contact The Hearing Clinic if you or someone you know needs assistance.

Tooth Chatter

NEW DENTURES

Consider the importance of your denture; your smile, facial support, speech and ability to chew properly are all affected by the fit and design of your dental appliance.

Many patients who have found difficulty with retention or comfortably wearing dentures in the past have now found the benefits of new materials and technology.

Cast metals bases, implants, magnets, Myloc Retention Systems and soft liner inserts are providing excellent results for many who's past experience was poor. Also, implants dentures are available.

Your dentures and tissues should be checked annually. Damage to the oral tissues can take place without your being aware of it. Early detection and elimination of tissue inflammation is important to minimize shrinking of the supporting bone. Remember, ill-fitting dentures could lead to many other health problems.

You do not need a referral; simply call our office direct.
