

Moving day delayed?

A house under construction on Chester St. in Georgetown South didn't withstand the gale-force winds that whipped through the area overnight Tuesday and Wednesday. Sometime during the night the house collapsed and shifted into an unoccupied neighboring home, that is also under construction. Halton Hills Hydro reported no major power outages from the storm but said some rural residents lost power for a time because of downed branches on hydro lines. Photo by Ted Brown there's no other opportunity to keep them," said Cullen.

The board's second suggestion to the ministry involves having an option to lease back schools designated for closure until new schools are built. The leased buildings would be designated as holding schools for students from other areas awaiting new schools.

"It's good policy to use these schools before they close," said Papke.

He said the lease-back request is an attempt to find a creative solution to varying student numbers across Halton.

"Will we have enough buildings for students? Yes," said Papke, when questioned about the aftermath of possible closures. "But our boundaries stretch from Acton to Lake Ontario and it means we will probably have to use portables. We will need to add portables to handle the growth we are going to experience."

In addition to the one-year postponement, Papke made three other suggestions based on the ministry agreeing to board requests.

- Proceed with the closure/consolidation of specific schools where efficient utilization cannot be achieved;

- Proceed with boundary reviews beginning in the review areas which have surplus capacity;

- Develop a preliminary plan for rationalization of boundaries and suggested closures, to be presented to the board for information only and disseminated to the public for input.
