

Police want public input

As part of the process to determine current and future police staffing needs Halton Regional Police Service is seeking opinions from the public on policing in Halton. Area residents interested in providing their opinions should attend a public meeting at the Georgetown police station at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

In addition to the public meetings volunteers will be canvassing the public at shopping malls throughout the region between November 16 and 30. Anyone interested in attending a meeting should call Keith Moore at 878-5511 ext. 5037.
