'Zorba' visits Georgetown

Academy award-winning actor Anthony Quinn emulates the pose from his bronze sculpture "Spirit of Zorba" that is being reproduced to life-size by Artcast Inc. in Georgetown. Quinn visited Artcast recently to put the final touches on the model of his sculpture with the artist/technician who has been working on the rough replica for about a month. See story page 2.

Friday edition offers something a little different

Welcome to the new Friday edition of The Independent & Free Press. With this third edition of our award-winning newspaper, we plan on offering you, our readers, more of a good thing, albeit it in a somewhat different fashion. The Friday edition will offer readers more emphasis on upcoming events, human interest stories, community columns and local shopping information. We also intend to introduce new features, including a weekly recipe column. Shoppers will be pleased to see several local store flyers will be included each Friday to help make your weekend shopping plans easier. Of course, we'll still offer comprehensive news coverage, but we hope this edition will provide you with something a little different and a good start to your weekend.
