Acton, Georgetown to meet for junior title

The Halton junior volleyball title will be on the line today with two Halton Hills schools vying for bragging rights.

The Acton High School Redmen and Georgetown District High School Rebels will square off today (Friday) at Sheridan College in Oakville.

Acton, which finished the regular season with a 5-2 record, advanced by defeating Iroquois Ridge 15-11, 15-10 in Wednesday's semifinal. They had earlier knocked off M.M. Robinson 15-13, 15-11 in Monday's quarterfinals. GDHS opened the playoffs by downing Pearson on Monday 15-4, 15-10 and then defeated Oakville-Trafalgar 15-9, 15-10 to advance to the final.

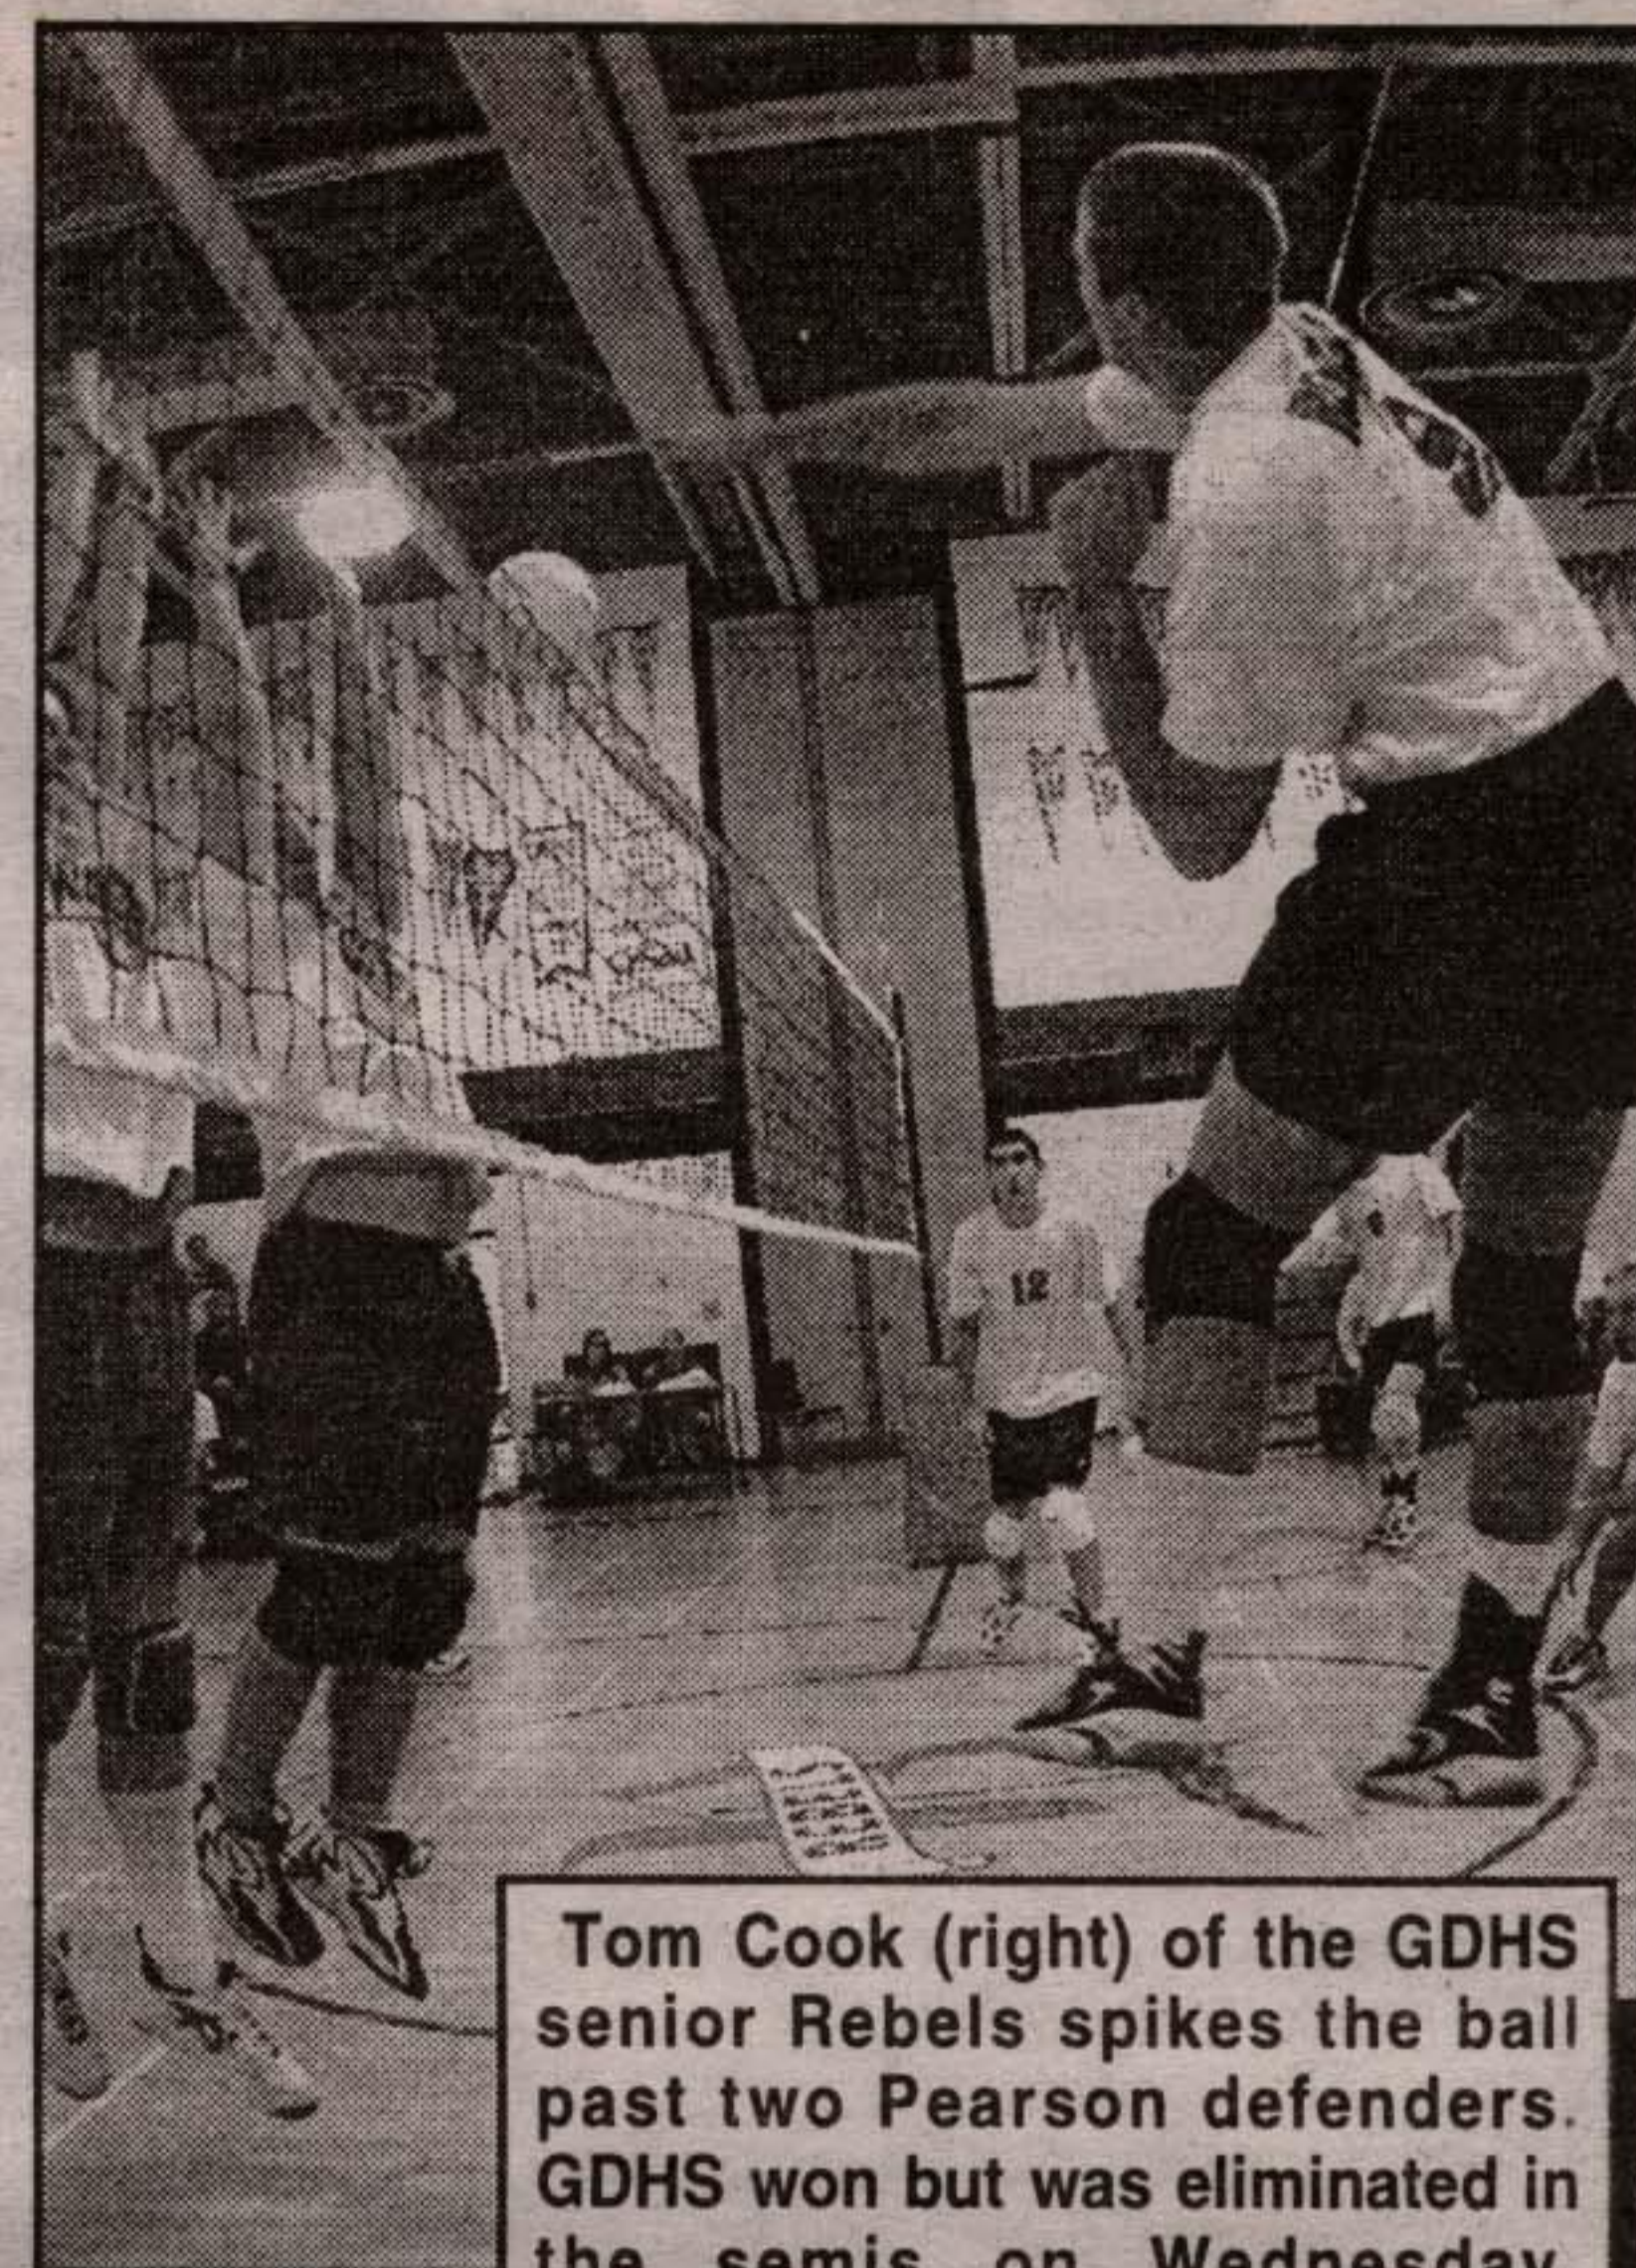

The two teams met in the season opener with Georgetown winning 15-8, 15-8. Georgetown was a perfect 7-0 this season but Acton is looking to defend its Halton Secondary School Athletic Association title and avenge the earlier loss.

"It was the first game of the year and we've improved a lot," said Acton coach Kelly Holmes. "We're playing well as a team. It should be a close game if we both play to the best of our ability."

Holmes said middle Shane Kilgour played an outstanding game against M.M. Robinson and setter Craig Lockwood continued a solid regular season into the playoffs. Josh Bowen and Mark Chumley also played well at the net for the Redmen.

"We beat them earlier in the season but we still have to be prepared," said Georgetown coach Jackie Brady. "We have to work together, play defence, call the ball and cover for each other."

Brady said the Rebels boast a strong starting six and have a strong support from the bench. The starters include Scott Allison, Luke Pakkala, setter Chris Campbell while Noah Malinosky, Mike Knoepfli and Peter Veltman give them three strong hitters.
