

Twelve clubs take part Butler, Rogers tops at Winterfest gymnastics meet

Lisa Butler and Jenna Rogers became the first Halton Hills gymnasts to win the Tim Hortons Trophy as the Halton Hills Gymnastics Club hosted Winterfest 99.

The trophy is awarded to the gymnast with the highest total score in each flight at the annual invitational gymnastics competition, which had 12 clubs participating this year. Butler had the top score of 32.35 to top a field of 31 gymnasts in the sixth flight. Rogers' score of 35.45 was the best of 32 gymnasts in the first flight.

Rogers led a Halton Hills sweep of the Mini B division. She was first on uneven parallel bars and second on both vault and floor exercises to take the all-around title. Casey McFadyen earned victories on both vault and the balance beam on her way to a second-place all-around finish. Chloe Lockwood completed the sweep by taking third, including a win on floor.

The club completed a second sweep in the Level 2, 11-12 Division. Stephanie Palichuk won on bars and beam, was second on vault and third on floor to take the all-around title. Lindsay Nicholls placed second all-around and Megan Burke took first on beam to help her place third all-

Megan McCrae won both the vault and floor to take top honors in the Level 1, 9-10 division. Teammate Jen Lymburner was sec-

Victories in the individual events eluded Stephanie Jones but her consistency led to the all-around title in the Open B division.

Larhae Bucke won both vault and bars on her way to victory in the Level 2, 9-10 Division. Bucke edged teammate Kristen Clarke by a 32.00 to 31.90 margin for first. Clarke tied Bucke for first in vault and was also first on beam and floor.

Holly Johnson (Level 3, 11-12) and Butler (Level 3, 13-and-over) also won all-around titles.

Emilie Blouin was the top gymnast on bars as she finished second all-around in the Open A division. She was followed by teammates Michelle Seanor and Nicola Bulgarelli, who tied for third. Seanor placed first on vault while Bulgarelli won the beam event.

Lisa Etchells narrowly edged teammate Jenna Johnson 30.90 to 30.85 for second all-around in the Level 2, 13-and-over division. Johnson was first on vault. Erin Smith claimed victories on both the bars and floor.
