Stomp Out Arthritis at Nashville North Sunday afternoon

Grab your line dancing partner, put on your cowboy boots and do some stompin' for a good cause. On Sunday, May 2, between 1-5 p.m., the Arthritis Society of Halton/Peel is holding its third annual Stomp Out Arthritis at Nashville North, located at 530 Guelph St. in Norval.

Its goal is to raise $10,000, which will go towards funding arthritis research, patient care and public education. Tickets are only $10, and are available at the door.

This year's Stomp Out is featuring the amazing talent of Marc Ekins from Lindsay, Ontario.

You don't have to be an expert dancer to participate. There will be a lot of prizes and give-away's the day of the event, including two Billy Ray Cyrus tickets for the August 22 show at Nashville North.

If you are unable to Stomp but still want to get involved, call the Arthritis Stomp Out Committee at (905) 712-2281.

Summer reading?

Katherine Langstaff, 11, found lots of books to read at the recent University Women's Club book sale at Georgetown High School. Proceeds go to scholarships.
