Police to host Safe School Forum

Halton, Peel and Hamilton-Wentworth regional police services and the Ontario Provincial Police, in partnership with The Canadian Safe School Network, are presenting Safe School Forum 99 in Oakville tomorrow (Saturday).

The safe school conference, which will be held in the Halton Regional Centre Auditorium from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., will address several topics seeking answers to school violence in Canada.

Fifteen different workshops will be conducted on school violence and topics including gangs, victimization, female violence, bullying and safe school crime stoppers programs.

Scott Newark, special counsel to the Ontario Attorney General, will be the keynote speaker. His presentation will be on the new Youth Justice Act.

The forum, which includes a continental breakfast, is open to the public and will cost adults $99 each. Students can attend for free.

For more information call Stu Auty of the Canadian Safe School Network at (905) 848-0440 or (416) 540-1265 (cell phone).
