

University Women's Club plans millennium diary/calendar

The Canadian Federation of University Women (CFUW), Georgetown chapter, will launch its 1999/2000 year on Tuesday, Sept. 14, at 7:30, with a wine and cheese reception in the Gallery of the Halton Hills Cultural Centre on Church Street, in Georgetown.

This annual event offers an opportunity to learn about the activities of this organization and to welcome new members.

The coming year brings another strong line-up of guest speakers. In October, Mississauga Mayor Hazel McCallion will share her views on the transformation of a small town to a large metropolis. In November, Michael Bliss, popular commentator, historian and author will share his research on Sir William Osler, an icon of modern medicine and the namesake of The William Osler Health Centre.

This year, in addition to their regular activities, CFUW Georgetown is planning an ambitious millennium project. In keeping with their strong commitment to education and the students of Halton Hills, they are designing and developing a full color Millennium Keepsake Diary/Calendar of the year 2000. It will feature fold-out en masse aerial photographs of the entire student body at each of our local schools. This lasting personal family keepsake will be an interactive chronicle of personal events, placing children and adults alike in the context of their schools and community in this historic year. The diary will include several pages highlighting community history through photographs and narrative as well as historical quirks and Canadiana linking our town to Ontario and Canada as a whole. The diaries will be distributed through the schools and a portion of the sales will be donated to each school as a fund-raiser.

Becoming a member of the Georgetown CFUW is a great way to meet new people, hear informative speakers and get involved in our community. All women who support the aims and interests of the club are welcome. Meetings are held on the first Tuesday of the month, 7:30 p.m., at the Gallery of the Cultural Centre on Church Street. For further information, call membership convener, Carol Petryschuk at 877-4569 or president, Ann Lawlor at 877-5662.
