The always popular midway provided fun for some like MacKenzie Lennox, 2, (above) of Georgetown and her mom Christine who took a spin on the merry-go-round. Others like Stephani Evans, 2, of Oakville (right) and her mother Shelley were a little more apprehensive as they went for a ride on the Superslide. See page 3 for more photos. ## Fair organizers thrilled as 10,000 take in 153rd edition

About 10,000 people took in the 153rd edition of the Georgetown Fall Fair on the weekend.

Doris Calder, entertainment director for the fair, said organizers were thrilled with the turnout.

"It was a huge success," said Calder.

"The fair board really appreciates the town (residents) coming out to the fair," said Calder.

The weather co-operated all weekend and Calder said the new midway at the fair, provided by Funland Midway, was a big hit with both young and old. She said she only received favorable comments about it.

The Demolition Derby Saturday night was another crowd pleaser.

"Our demolition derby was a sold-out night. There wasn't even standing room," said Calder. The truck and tractor pull Friday night also drew a big crowd and Calder said each year that event has become more popular.

Calder said the Hunter Schooling Show at 9 a.m. Saturday had also really grown this year. The number of competitors had jumped dramatically from last year to close to 60 on Saturday.

MP Julian Reed had a unique experience at the fair Saturday morning when he kissed a holstein cow. Reed was the lucky person who got to go lip to lip with the cow because he was the winner of the sponsorship race. Mayor Marilyn Serjeantson was a close second in the race.
