

Georgetown Seniors host bazaar tomorrow

Black cats, witches and hobgoblins all decorated the walls at the Georgetown Seniors Centre for our annual Halloween luncheon on Tuesday, Oct. 27. Over 100 sat down to a soup, sandwich and dessert prepared by Martha Stone's group. Costumes, however, were scarce as only a few brave souls dressed for the occasion this year. Prizes went to Caroline Willis, Helen Brooks and Wilma Parker. Following lunch we were entertained by the centre's drama group introduced by Rhoda Geggie. Florence Carswell, Sheila Ward, Wilma Parker, Florence Rahel and Gord Robinson combined their talents to keep us laughing with a skit entitled, Nanjee Magoo, The Fortune Teller. Well done, all!

The next big day at the centre is tomorrow, Nov. 6, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.—the Christmas Bazaar. Features will include craft sales, a white elephant table and a sale of baked goods. Jams, jellies, pickles, and relishes will also be available. (Donations of baked goods and white elephant items from centre members would be appreciated.) During the day a 50/50 draw, turkey draws and the sale of raffle tickets on the craft club quilt will be held. Plan to attend!

Don't forget our members only bingos resume on Monday, Nov. 8 at 1:30 p.m. 'Sharpen' up your daubers all you bingo buffs.

On Thursday, Nov. 11 a Remembrance service will be held at the centre from 7-8:30 p.m. Our choir, conducted by Barbara Hobart, will be present. Edith Klee will play some of the old melodies (you can sing along), Joyce Tilson will present a Remembrance reading and to close, our president Rein Pater will narrate some of veteran John Weymss' wartime experiences.

If you are interested in plants, particularly cacti, come to the seniors centre on Nov. 16 at 1 p.m. Dave and Betty Naylor, owners of Naylor's Desert Plants will share their knowledge of this fascinating topic.

Tickets for our annual Christmas dinner on Dec. 9 are now on sale for $15. Space is limited to 225 so get your tickets soon.

The travel desk has some very interesting trips coming up. Grant Greenaway, our travel master, will be happy to discuss them with you. See Grant Tuesdays and Thursdays at the centre or call 877-6444 for information.

Until next time—cheerio!
