

Together, we're better.

Aquafine joins Culligan. Now there's one source for the two most trusted names in the water industry.

Now there's a strong new team serving our communities across Canada. That's good news for us and our customers. We're committed to continue meeting the highest standards of quality and value. Now, we'll also be able to offer you a broader range of products and services - the best on the market, from the best in the water service industry.

From bottled drinking water to the latest purification systems... watch for great new products, services and special offers - coming soon from your new Culligan team.

We're proud to be part of Culligan's growing network. Culligan is an industry pioneer and has been a leader in water service technologies and products since 1936.

Represented in over 90 countries, Culligan is one of North America's largest and best known water service companies. To millions of residential and commercial customers, Culligan is water.
