NOW PROVE IT

After 40, it gets harder to see up close. It's a natural condition called presbyopia. Regular visits to the eye doctor can keep things in focus.

Sunday at 3 continues with local performer

The Arts Alive Concert Series Sunday At 3 continues at the Halton Hills Cultural Centre Gallery with local vocalist Sandra Greig (right).

Well-known for her many roles with Georgetown Globe Productions, Greig has also played in numerous shows with Brampton Musical Society and Meadowvale Theatre, where she was most recently seen in the lead role in Mame.

At the piano, and back by popular demand is Jim Campbell who performs regularly in the Toronto area.

The two will perform popular ballads and show tunes, together with a selection of seasonal music.

Doors open at 2:30 p.m. Light refreshments served. There is no admission charge—pay what you can.

Come early to avoid disappointment. Last month's concert played to a capacity crowd.

Singer Sandra Greig is shown as she performed in the Seniors Jubilee at Roy Thomson Hall last summer.

Guide to the Outdoors

Julie Pomeroy

Montgomery Christmas is Saturday. It's hard for me to think of anything else but Lucy Maud Montgomery. In the Norval Manse where she lived, she had a flat roof on the bay window outside her room. She found it interesting to watch the birds there. Her son Stuart would feed them with rations of suet and bread. I think Montgomery would be surprised to see how sophisticated bird feeding has become since 1927. For example, I keep a minimum of six different varieties of suet on the shelves. There's pure rendered suet, cranberry orange suet, peanut butter suet and seed suets that include sunflower, millet, thistle and peanut hearts. Yes, Maud, the birds in Norval continue to eat very well. Tomorrow festivities run from 10-4.
