Victor's genius has inspired an entire generation of musicians to pursue the triangle as their instrument of choice...

BY CHRIS DAV...

TORONTO - Panic swept the city like a raging Tsunami yesterday as word spread that the beloved area resident and renowned trianglerist Victor Petrenko had gone missing.

Petrenko acquired professional and critical acclaim as a lead triangle player in North Etobicoke Symphonies and Taps, but had moved on to a highly successful solo career credited with single-handedly dragging the triangle back row of the musical.
