

Community dance in Ballinafad tonight

Folks are invited to come out to the community centre tonight (Friday, Sept. 29) for a Family Dance at 8 p.m. There will be square dancing, line dancing, door prizes, raffles, etc. Admission is $8 adults, $4 child or $20 family. A terrific band has been hired for the evening—Rod's Country Classics from Belfountain. This will be a neat evening for young and not so young. Everyone is welcome. Hope to see you there.

Yippee! Wow! were the comments made after the Family Corn Roast held at the Ballinafad Community Centre on Sunday, Sept. 16.

Folks gathered for the number of activities organized for them including a baseball game of moveups for all ages, even two-year-olds. Other games included family relay races, peanut on a spoon race and shoe kick. Another crowd pleaser was the face painting. So many had their faces done in such pretty colourful designs. Jumbo Video was the hero for the day, as this business had supplied all the popcorn (mega amounts) and coupon books used for prizes. Thanks so much Jumbo Video of Georgetown.

Back again this year, and with amazingly new and even more fantastic tricks was the magician Alan Grose. He had people so mystified, when he could put coins in their hands or take them out without them feeling a thing. Alan was also creative and quick when making balloons animals for the children. The only downside to the day was that because the attendance was well over 100, doubling last year's, there was not enough hotdogs or food. Organizers apologize for this. Special thanks to all that helped out. You really gave a wonderful memory to all that attended.

On Tuesday, Sept. 12, the Ballinafad United Church Women held a joint meeting with St. Andrew's ACW in Georgetown. John McDonald, a noted author of local history was the guest speaker and he had brought along slides and described many past times of Limehouse, Glen Williams, Acton and Georgetown. He even had a post card from Ballinafad. The Ballinafad UCW has some upcoming catering to do as well as the annual Turkey Supper in November. It was decided not to have the annual sale this fall, as with the road construction there just is not enough traffic.

The Thursday, Sept. 7 euchre at the community centre at 38 players. Winners were Hazel Reis and Joe Primus, first; Carl Volmar, second and Kay McGill, third; Henning Rasmussen, most lone hands and Sandy Kilpatrick, low score.

Attendance seems to be down due to the road construction on Trafalgar Rd.; folks are having to travel up the Sixth or Eighth Lines and then back across to get to the community centre. The next euchre will be on Thursday, Oct. 5, 7:30 p.m. Everyone is invited. Cost is $3.

Local refugee worker informs Ashgrove W.I.

Are you weary of being bombarded by the worlds of finance, technology and automobiles? For a significant number of people in our world, knowledge of these areas does not address their needs.

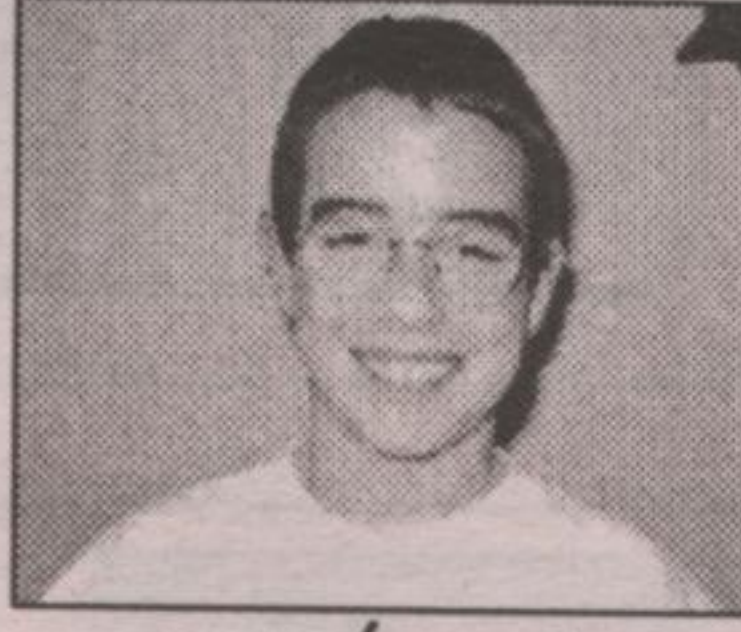

Barbara Treviranus, who is an advocate for refugees in our area, described her work to the members of the Ashgrove Women's Institute recently. We were impressed with her quiet dedication to her work, her attentive ear, and her genuine joy of accomplishment when she finds she can guide her respondents through the complicated legal process and help them begin to rebuild their shattered lives. It is comforting to know also that Canada is one of only 10 countries that is providing permanent settlement help to selected refugees with special needs.

Next month we visit Susan and Bill Alexander's goat farm. If interested, phone 877-0388 for more information.
