Fund-raiser for November trip to Prague

Bach Chorale hosts Wild Boar Dinner

Spend A Night in the Black Forest, and enjoy a wild boar dinner with the Georgetown Bach Chorale on Friday, Oct. 27 at Knox Presbyterian Church in Georgetown.

This fund-raising gourmet dinner, at 7 p.m., will support the Chorale's upcoming trip to Prague, Czech Republic in November and their holiday concert in December.

The 28-member Chorale chamber choir was founded the spring of 1999 when a group of enthused singers came together to perform Johann Sebastian Bach's St. Matthew Passion—regarded by many as the most difficult of that famed composer's choral works. While the Chorale's mandate is to sing Bach's music, they will also perform works of other classical composers.

The group was invited to perform at the Advent Choral Festival in Prague by the Czech Public Radio. This tour, Nov. 21-29, will include four concerts in five days, with the broadcast of one on Czech Public Radio. Other performances will be held in the outdoor Christmas Marketplace and during a church service in a Lutheran Church.

Local musical lovers can get a preview of their Prague repertoire at a concert in Georgetown's Knox Church at 3 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 19.

As well, during the Wild Boar Dinner, which follows the theme of

A Night in the Black Forest, Bach's home region, a mix of musical selections including Beethoven, Schubert, English madrigals and Broadway standards will be performed.

Tickets are $55 per person for the gourmet dinner.

The menu includes:

- Leberwurst (liver sausage) with blackberry compote and crackers
- Roast wild boar (raised near Stratford), with wild grape fruit sauce
- Spatzle (handmade tiny dumplings) with apple-pear chutney sauce
- Rotkohl mit Apfeln (red cabbage, apples and red wine)
- Saure Kartoffeln (potatoes with back and wine vinegar)
- Geschmictes Salat (beet and celeriac salad)
- Assorted German-style breads
- Gourmet treat additions
- Schwarzwaldler Kirschtorte (Black Forest cake)
- Linzer Torte (hazelnut-raspberry torte)
- Blackberry tarts
- Strudels
- Kolack (a Czech pastry with poppy seeds)
- Two glasses of wine or beer, and tea and coffee

Tickets for the dinner are available at Sweet Designs for Every Occasion, 124 Main St. S., Georgetown, 877-0639 or by calling 873-3194.

Upcoming events for the Chorale include the holiday concert at Knox Church on Sunday, Dec. 16 at 7:30 p.m. featuring J.S. Bach's Magnificat and A. Vivaldi's Gloria with orchestral accompaniment conducted by Juan Gonzales-Castelao of Spain.

The Chorale will also be giving performances of St. Matthew Passion in the weeks before Easter in a variety of locations in Ontario that normally would not have such concerts.

The Chorale will also be taking part in the 2001 Sounds of Spring concert series in Georgetown and future concert trips abroad are being considered for next year.

Local artist holds farewell exhibit

Artist Agnes Olive hosts her final exhibition and sale of raku pottery, handmade paper hangings, blown glass and original prints at her Terra Cotta home.

Until Oct. 22 her work will be set up in a gallery-setting at her home, 52 Isabella St., with open house hours Oct. 21 and 22, noon to 6 p.m. Otherwise, call Olive, 877-5872 and arrange an appointment.

Olive is off to live in San Miguel de Allende in Mexico on Oct. 26 and she appreciates the community's support during her 20 years at The Forge Studio Gallery.
