Hires new development officer

Hospital Foundation prepares for its future fund-raising campaign

There's a new face in the Georgetown Hospital Foundation office. Cay Nadon has joined the office as development officer.

Tricia Lefler, who held that position since 1996, is now donor relations officer.

The office was expanded in preparation for the redevelopment needs of Georgetown hospital including the renovation of departments such as emergency, and the purchase of new and replacement equipment.

Nadon has several years experience as a fund-raising consultant and taught a fund-raising course at Georgian College in Barrie.

"I've had experience with capital campaign fund-raising," said Nadon, who is excited about her new position, and is also moving to town.

Al Fraser, president of the Georgetown Hospital Foundation, said Nadon will be a welcome addition to the office.

"Tricia and Cay will work very closely together," said Fraser, who praised Lefler for doing a super job as development officer over the past few years.

He said Nadon will apply her fund-raising experience to go out into the community to solicit funds in a co-ordinated manner. All money raised in Georgetown stays at the Georgetown hospital.

Nadon has also conducted planning studies for hospital campaigns prior to capital campaigns.

CAY NADON

recreation centre, is under way.

"This community is in the spirit of giving and our hopes are they will continue to give," said Nadon.

Nadon and Lefler can be reached at 873-0111 ext. 217.
