

Snow plowers

When the first snowfall of the year hits the ground, usually the first thought on the minds of children is to build a snowman. Instead, these two industrious three-year-olds, Megan Chiovitti and Bryce Alchin, decided to help clear the snow from the McClure Court lane Monday. With more snow expected throughout the remainder of the week, there will be plenty of time for snowmen.

Norval to celebrate eighth Montgomery Country Christmas

The eighth annual Montgomery Country Christmas gets under way in the village of Norval this Saturday, Nov. 25.

The annual Christmas celebration honours the birthday of famous Canadian author Lucy Maud Montgomery who, as wife to the Presbyterian minister, lived in the village during the Depression years.

The festival starts at 10 a.m. and continues until 4 p.m.

At Canoe Country there will be wood carving demonstrations, Christmas music by talented harpist and folk singer Anneliese Cameron, and a Heritage Garden seed and bake sale by the Norval Community Association. Refreshments will be available.

At the Norval Presbyterian manse, home to Montgomery and her family from 1926-1935, lunch will be served and there will be a craft sale at the Presbyterian Church.

The St. Paul's Anglican Church will host a bake, craft and white elephant table sale and a chili lunch. There will be a draw at 2 p.m. for a Hallmark gift basket, handmade musical nativity, and a gourmet gift basket.

The Norval United Church will hold their annual bazaar and host a tea in the heritage home next door. The Brass Ensemble will tour the village.

Check out the events and the music on the Montgomery Web page at www.canoe-country.com.
