Julie Pomeroy

Canadian artist and member of the Group of Seven, Tom Thompson was an avid outdoorsman. Algonquin Park became his favourite place to paint. On July 8, 1917 he drowned under mysterious circumstances. It is thought that he may have been murdered, either during or after a drinking party at a friends cottage. People who visit Canoe Lake have witnessed the vision of a man in a checked shirt paddling a grey-green canoe through the early morning mists. Does his spirit still live? Read this story and others in Ontario Ghost Stories, a book of spooky tales for the around the campfire. The McMichael gallery is one of my favourite places to visit. It holds the largest permanent display of Tom Thomsons work. www.mcmichael.com 1-888-213-1121
