'Do you agree with the privatization of Ontario Hydro?'

Bill Somerville,
retired,
Georgetown

"I don't agree. I don't feel the need to disrupt the situation at all. I'm quite happy with the way our hydro is running right now."

Keith Ramsden,
retired,
Georgetown

"I certainly do. I don't think the government should be involved in any business. If the government is involved, it creates inefficiency."

Maureen Moore,
homemaker,
Georgetown

"No I don't agree. I feel making hydro a private company will make us give up our own hydro, and it will go to the highest bidder."

Bonnie Morgan,
sales,
Georgetown

I don't agree. I don't think it's going to help us at all. I feel it's fine the way it is today."

'Considerable work to be done' to keep two youth centres open

Open houses at two youth centres slated for closure in June were well-attended by residents and politicians who want to keep them open.

Councillor John Day, chair of the citizens' committee, Keeping Our Youth Doors Open committee, told his fellow councillors at Monday's meeting, "A lot of questions asked, maybe not all of the answers given. Certainly there is a desire to keep them open."

His committee will soon be delivering their message to service clubs, businesses and other groups in an attempt to raise the money (about $10,000) to keep the centres open in the short-term (until the end of the school year) and in the long term.

"The issue of sustainable funding for the future is something that needs to be looked at either in a partnership or other options; I think they're all on the table," he said. "There's considerable work to be done, if they're going to stay open."

Day said Mayor Kathy Gastle has offered to hold discussions with the Halton Hills Community Support and Information board chair and executive director. While he said he hopes the meetings will prove fruitful, he did not specify what those discussions would entail.

Anyone interested in making a donation or helping out with the campaign to raise money should call Day at 905-873-3979.
