

What You Said

'The town has banned pesticide use on town-owned lands. Should the ban be extended to residential properties?'

Shannon McPherson,
Georgetown,
maintenance

"Yes, I wouldn't want my son to go playing on grass with pesticides sprayed on it."

Haley Curzon,
Georgetown,
retail

"I think it should be allowed. Personally, I prefer natural methods but you should have the choice on your own property."

Tabetha Woods,
Georgetown,
maintenance

"I think they should. I think (pesticides) are bad for the environment."

Dan Bell,
Hillsburgh,

"I'd like to see that. From what I know about pesticides they're harmful, especially for kids."

Kinsmen TV auction nets $15,000

The counting is done and the Georgetown Kinsmen TV Auction was a success, raising approximately $15,000.

"It was a very successful auction in terms of how things ran at the new Cogeco studio in Milton," said auction co-chair Bruce Leonard.

Leonard said the spa provided by Emerald Isle Bedroom Gallery brought in the most money—$5,950. Other items up for auction included spa day packages at Adamson Spa and Salon, rounds of golf at Devil's Pulpit and North Halton Golf and Country Club and firearms training provided by Halton Regional Police.

Leonard said a generous portion of the money raised in the auction will go towards the Kinsmen's Club $75,000 five-year commitment to the the localmotion campaign.
