

Canadian Tire collects for Daily Bread Food Bank

The Daily Bread Food Bank and the Canadian Tire Foundation for Families are running an in-store cash collection program until Sunday (Sept. 8) to help address the critical food shortage at the Daily Bread Food Bank.

All Canadian Tire stores in the Greater Toronto Area, including Georgetown's will be collecting cash donations. The Canadian Tire Foundation for Families will match every donation dollar for dollar. The funds will be used to purchase non-perishable items to assist the Daily Bread Food Bank in its effort to continue to meet the demand for its critical services.

Cash collection boxes will be available at cashiers' check-outs.

Food banks across the Greater Toronto Area have experienced increased demand for their services this year. Because hunger is a problem not only in inner city areas but also in the suburbs, Daily Bread will share the food purchased with Canadian Tire donations with their member agencies throughout the region. Daily Bread provides food to 170 member food programs throughout the GTA.
