Brad Haynes' bases-loaded double scored the winning run as CIBC Small Business rallied to edge Turner Automotive 12-10 in the final game at the Georgetown Baseball Association Tim Horton's Day of Champions.

CIBC trailed 7-1 at one point during Saturday's peewee/bantam final but rallied to force an extra inning. CIBC scored the game's first run but Turner Automotive came back to take a 5-1 lead in the bottom half of the inning.

CIBC stayed in the game with some good pitching. Jonathan Haffner, Reed DeHaas and Anthony Goulet combined to strike out nine batters. But Turner Automotive was also getting strong pitching with Jadon Veldman striking out six and Ryan Arch fanning five to help protect a 7-1.

CIBC would finally get the bats going in the fourth. Reed DeHaas hit a bases-loaded triple and scored to pull CIBC within two.

CIBC would tie the game in the sixth when Chris McCallum tripled and later scored.

After a scoreless seventh, CIBC took the lead in the first extra inning. Kelly Gardiner's double scored Kyle Hill. Up by two and with the bases loaded, Haynes brought home two more with his double.

Turner Automotive didn't go down without a fight, though. With Kyle Marples and Jody Stemburger already across the plate, Turner loaded the bases with one out. Chris Snoyer came in to pitch and escaped the jam by striking out the first batter he faced, then snaring a comebacker for the final out to preserve the win.

The Royal Canadian Legion won the silver medal with a 19-14 win over Future Stars.

Michael Nicholl hit a pair of solo homers and Adam Slade tripled and drove in five runs to lead WVP Consulting to a 23-3 victory over the Co-operators in the Mosquito championship game. Matthew Trisic stole three bases for WVP. Peter Donohoe had a double for the Co-operators.
