Four Georgetown School of Highland Dancing dancers traveled to British Columbia for the Canadian Championship Series and came home with gold. From left, Erica Sammut won the Overall Intermediate Trophy in both the Highland and National sections, Stephanie Wright won six medals, Kylie de Chastelain won the Overall Highland Trophy in the Novice and Emma Gibson won a gold, a bronze and a fourth place medal.

Local dancers win Canadian trophies and medals

It was another successful summer for all the dancers from the Georgetown School of Highland Dancing and in particular, four dancers who traveled to British Columbia for the Canadian Championship Series— all came home with Canadian gold.

Erica Sammut, who has won over 18 provincial overall trophies this year, earned five gold medals and two trophies at the Canadian championship: the Overall Intermediate Trophy in both the Highland and National sections. This is the third Canadian trophy for Sammut, who had won the Overall Highland Trophy at the Canadians in Montreal last year.

Stephanie Wright, competing in the beginner section, proved that hard work really does pay off. In her first full summer, Wright has won three provincial overall trophies, a Most Promising Trophy and at her first Canadians, came home with six Canadian medals, winning a gold, silver, three bronze and one fourth place.

Kylie de Chastelain, after winning two Canadian Overall Trophies last year in Montreal, repeated her performance again this year in B.C., winning the Overall Highland Trophy in the Novice section with one gold, three silver, a fourth place and a fifth place.

Emma Gibson, who has been a consistent medal award winner this summer, and who won three medals last year at the Canadians, won a gold, a bronze and a fourth place medal in B.C.

Congratulations also go to Georgetown School of Highland Dancing provincial medal and trophy award winners: Sarah Jones, Tannis Watson, Michelle Mackie, Carly Naismith, Ellen Ditschun, Janice Power, Laura Sullivan, Brittany Ramsey, Hannah Gibson, Andrea McCracken, and Laura Milne.

"It goes without saying, that this has been the hottest summer ever, and these dancers, who practised week after week at the studio and who competed at all the outdoor competitions this summer really excelled when it came working hard on achieving their goals. They showed great discipline, excellent teamwork spirit and really created life long memories and friendships. There is no one prouder of them than their teacher," said Sue McCarrol of the Georgetown School of Highland Dancing.
