Alliance Church invites all to Carnivale Weekend

What does the last weekend in September mean? Well it means the leaves are changing colour and fall has arrived and for the people of Georgetown Alliance Church, it means that Carnivale is here once again. It's set for September 27, 28 and 29.

"Carnivale Weekend is an opportunity for us to throw a party for Georgetown," said Patrick Timney, the pastor of Worship and Outreach. "The question we hear most frequently over the course of the weekend is 'Why do you do this?' Quite simply, it is a great opportunity for us to demonstrate our love for the people of Georgetown and its surrounding communities."

"This year we are incredibly excited to have the internationally renowned 'chalk guy' Ben Glenn with us for the weekend. What this guy can do with chalk is astounding. His art is amazing and it is really something to see him bring it to life right before your eyes," said Timney. Glenn will be featured at a variety of events throughout the weekend.

As in past years, a full slate of events has been planned for the weekend with something that will appeal to everyone.

Carnivale begins on Friday at noon with a luncheon for the seniors in the community. A meal will be served, and there will be music and a few surprises.

At 7:30 p.m. the high school youth will take over the facility for an evening of fun with inflatable toys, food and Glenn.

From 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday the church will host Kids Carnival for families. There will be games of skill, hot dogs, popcorn and candy floss, as well as inflatable rides.

Once again, Glenn will be creating some amazing chalk art. Immediately following the Kids Carnival, from 3 to 5 p.m. junior high kids will have the chance to take over the "big toys," have some pizza and meet Glenn.

Saturday evening at 7:30 p.m. the church will host Cabaret Sauvignon.

Billed as "an impertinent little evening, with a full-bodied nutty flavour" it will be a zany evening of music and comedy featuring the talents of Toronto actress/singer/comedian Zoe Adams.

At 10:30 a.m. Sunday everyone is invited to check out the church, have lunch, listen to music and check out Glenn's artwork.

All of the events are free of charge with the exception of Cabaret Sauvignon. Everyone is welcome.

For information, or for tickets to Cabaret Sauvignon call 905-873-0249.
