Firefighters to be honoured

Veteran and rookie Halton Hills firefighters will be recognized in a ceremony next week as part of National Fire Prevention Week.

Mayor Kathy Gastle will present graduation diplomas Tuesday at 7 p.m. to six new firefighters and exemplary service medals and bars to three senior firefighters with more than 70 years of combined service in a ceremony that will recognize service to the community.

"Our firefighters represent the finest of our community," said Halton Hills Fire Department director Bob Meads. "They give of themselves day after day, year after year, so it is our privilege to formally recognize their dedication to duty, and this municipality. Our new graduates represent our future. They will carry on the best of our traditions and set new standards for service to our community."

The ceremony will be held at the Civic Centre.

Region OKs public defibrillator plan

Public access defibrillators (PADs) may soon be coming to a municipal building near you. Halton regional council recently endorsed a proposed to initiate a PAD program, pending 2003 budget approval.

The program would see compact computerized defibrillation machines situated in public areas in case of a cardiac arrest. Prior to any PADs being installed around the region, a steering committee would be established to determine the most suitable locations.

Initial locations would likely include municipal offices, recreational facilities and malls.

Each PAD machine costs about $5,000. An additional 1.5 full-time employees would also be needed to run the program.
