Brother, sister thrilled at meeting Queen

It was a Thanksgiving they will never forget.

On Thanksgiving Monday two Georgetown residents, brother and sister Byron and Jill Thomas, attended a reception at Rideau Hall in Ottawa where they met Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh (Prince Phillip).

"It was a great way to spend Thanksgiving," said Byron, a lawyer who works in Toronto. "It's something I'll never forget." His sister Jill has a business in town.

The two siblings represented the Toronto branch of the Royal Commonwealth Society at the event.

While there, Byron had the chance to present the Queen with a videotape of a plaque presentation he made in honour of her jubilee on the television program 100 Huntley Street.

He spoke to the Queen about the video, her Golden Jubilee and mentioned that it would be nice if Princes Harry and William could visit Canada soon.

"She said hopefully the boys will be able to come over soon but they are focusing on their education right now."

Byron said it was great to see "such a familiar face we've all grown up with."
