A Golden evening

Halton MP Julian Reed (centre) is flanked by Queen's Golden Jubilee medal recipients from Georgetown, Acton and Glen Williams following a ceremony Wednesday night in Milton. Above, from left, are May Hoare, George Henderson, Lynn Clark, Colin Cousens, Maj. Jack Harrison, Mark Rowe (accepting on behalf of daughter Erin), Bob Nicholls (accepting on behalf of daughter Krista), Wendy Cotton, Sgt. Christopher Brooks, Rev. Richard Ruggle, Lt. Scott Teeter, and Edward (Ted) Gorth. (Right) Sgt. Christopher Brooks of Georgetown, a member of the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry who served overseas with the United Nations in Yugoslavia, holds his Queen's Golden Jubilee medal and his five-month old son Tucker, after the ceremony at Milton Town Hall. Medals were awarded to 46,000 Canadians to recognize their community service.

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND INFORMATION

Halton Hills Community Support and Information (HHCSI) is a non-profit, community based organization which provides services to all ages. Seniors services include: Meals on Wheels, Telephone Assurance, Friendly Visiting, Wheels to Meals, Congregate Dining, Supportive Housing etc. Family Resource Programs for families and caregivers, includes parent education, drop in and networking programs, toy lending libraries and wrap around support services. There is also a Young Parents Program. Open Door and Off the Wall youth centres provide socialization, activities, events and wrap around services. As a Community Information Centre, HHCSI can help you by searching for the information that you need for support. HHCSI connects people to meals, shelter and refers them to other services as needed. We also transport people to training, education, shopping and other destinations. While seniors and children receive funding from government sources, it is the United Way who supports the unfunded Youth and Community Support programs, together with fundraising and private donations. Volunteer time and talent support all programs. All money raised by the United Way stays in Halton Hills and the Board of Directors and staff thank the United Way of Halton Hills for their continuing generous financial support.
