GDHS students become 'Earth Angels'

Georgetown District High School Grade 11 science class students (from left) Ben Da Silva, Amanda Critch, Amy Moore, Krystal Balash, Victoria Reynolds and Yvonne Livingstone were among the many students who did their bit to help the environment by planting 10 trees around the school yard, as part of a project organized by Earth Angels. The trees were donated by Home Depot, and other Halton schools also took advantage of the project.
