

Trunk Sale group hands over cash

Organizers of the Acton Trunk Sale presented a number of cheques to local community groups, when kicking off its 10th anniversary season. Front row (from left) Aldo Braida, accepting $500 for the Acton Citizens Band; Bill Taylor, accepting $475 for the Acton High School Alumni Reunion; John Creasey, accepting $300 for the Acton Horticultural Society for the flower bed in front of the library; Mark Semple and his six-year-old son James accepting $350 for the Scouts to rebuild a washroom. Back row, Acton Trunk Sale organizers Jake Kuiken, Angela Tyler, Jack Carpenter, George Hargrave, and Ted Tyler. The Trunk Sale runs every Saturday morning on Queen St. in Acton until October.

Hamlets are one step closer to garbage pickup

Based on survey results, Halton Hills council will request that Halton Region begin garbage collection in the hamlets of Glen Williams, Norval and Stewarttown in February 2004.

Halton Region council makes the final decision. The waste collection will include pickup of regular garbage, recyclables, special bulk materials days and yard waste and Christmas trees.

The cost— an estimated $132 on a home assessed at $250,000— will be added to homeowners' tax bills.

"The results are clear; it's two to one across the board," said Wards 1/2 Regional Councillor Rick Bonnette.

Of the 742 surveys sent to the hamlet households, 49 per cent were returned. Of those who responded, 65 per cent are in favour of regional waste collection, 35 per cent are opposed.

Glen Williams's residents were 63 per cent in favour; Stewarttown residents, 67 per cent and Norval residents favoured it by 66 per cent.

Residents cannot opt out of the regional collection.

Ward 2 Councillor Joan Robson, and a longtime Glen resident, said hamlets are becoming more urbanized.

"The people in our hamlets, who have gotten behind it, are getting what they want," she said. "That it's; it's a democracy."
