Mystical Images on display

Williams Mill Gallery will host an exciting exhibition of two artists, entitled Mystical Images, now until Sept. 28.

Original prints by Marg Peter and clay pieces by Melanie Collum— work inspired by the art of ancient cultures— will be on display.

The artists will be on hand at an opening reception, Saturday, Sept. 6, 2-5 p.m. at the Williams Mill Gallery located on Main St. in Glen Williams.

As an original Guelph print maker, Peter has created etchings to reflect her interest in fossils and evolution.

A trip to Writing-On-Stone Park in Alberta two years ago expanded her interest as she became very excited about the stories incised or painted on the sandstone by the Indians.

The Mystical Images exhibition is made up of the etchings and collagraphs that record these stories and those from Peterborough Petroglyph Park, Utah and other areas in the world.

Joining Peter in this exhibition is porcelain artist, Collum. In a language far from neutral, Collum's pottery dares cultural imagination. The sensuous designs present images of women, animals and landscapes, combined with symbols of sacred spirituality.

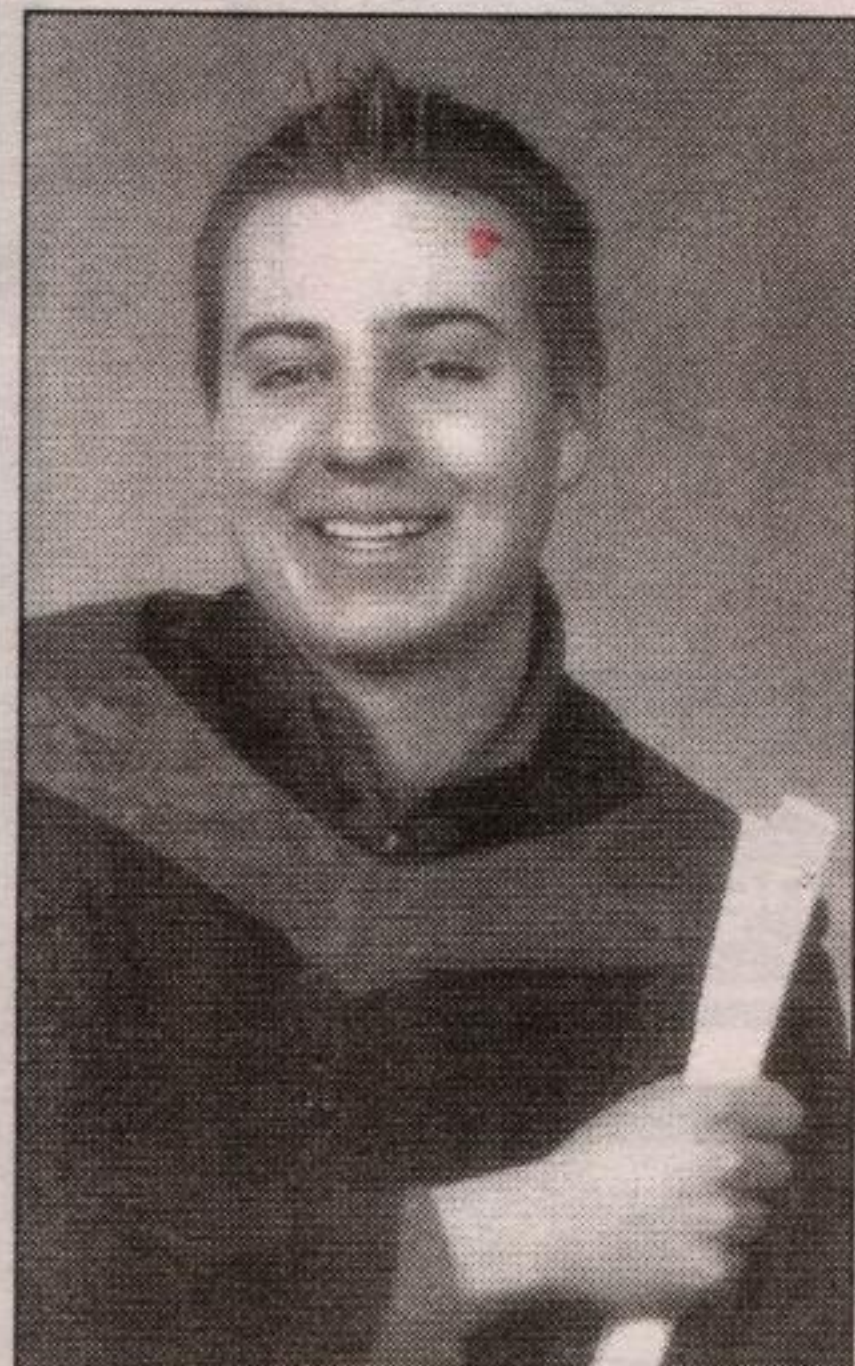

The images are painted onto fine porcelain and fired to a high temperature. Collum's pottery is fully functional; safe for use in the microwave and dishwasher.
