

First-ever Fall Clean Up Day goes Saturday

Halton Hills Litter-Free Task Force is organizing the town's first-ever Fall Clean Up Day on Saturday, Oct. 4.

"There's just seems to be an awful lot of litter that has appeared since our last Clean Up day," said Task Force chair Jane Fogal. "It looks bad out there and we want to have a clean town. I hate to see that litter stay out there for the rest of the fall and winter for people to look at."

Groups of all types and ages are invited to participate on this blitz day—rain or shine. Being targeted are roadways, school yards, parking lots, parks, business areas, gateways and valley lands.

Participants are asked to call Wendy Edwards at the public works yard, 905-873-2601, ext. 2610 to register where they are cleaning up and arrange for the bags to be delivered and picked up.

Participants can also bring collected litter to the Works Yard, on Trafalgar Rd. (beside Jones Funeral Home) anytime during this weekend.

Members of the Litter-Free Task Force and Communities in Bloom, a co-sponsor, will be working along Guelph St. on Saturday. This is the first time for a fall Clean Up Day, although there has been spring Clean Up Days for two years. Last spring, more than 60 groups collected 12 tonnes of metal (including fencing, bedsprings and hubcaps), six tonnes of regular garbage, three tonnes of wood (including plywood and fence posts) and 60 tires.

Fogal said the town now intends to budget for two Clean Up days per year.

"I'm looking forward to having a clean town," she said. "It just makes me feel so good driving around after the Clean Up to see what our town is supposed to look like. It gives you a positive feeling when you live in a place that is litter-free."

Heaton runs against Savoline for regional chair

Williams said council is going mad for Communities in Bloom but forgetting about roads, many of which are in deplorable condition.

He added if elected he plans to donate 10 per cent of his salary to Cancer Assistance Services of Halton Hills to provide rides for cancer patients.

Former Halton Hills councillor Rob Heaton is running for the regional chair's position.

Heaton, who is single and has nine years of council experience, works as a computer consultant. The Halton Hills resident said he is running for the regional chair's job because "people need to be first versus developers at the region."

When asked what he would like to accomplish in the job he said "as much as possible for the public within the constraints of the federal and provincial governments."
