

Catholic high school holds mock vote

Christ the King students held their own election at the school yesterday to compare to the Ontario provincial election. Among those students taking part in the vote counting were (seated, left) Graeme Owens and Hayley Lopez. In back, (from left) Melissa Sabatini, Danielle De Courcy, Breann Thordarson, Adam Springer-Allen and Barbara Opletal. The results of their election were not available at press time. Halton District School Board students also voted in the provincial mock election at their schools. These students participated in the 'Kids Voting Canada' program, which targeted toward Grade 9-12 students, hoped to inspire students to be more civic-responsible and to establish a pattern of voting in adulthood.
