Bach Chorale joins with quintet for first concert of its season

The Georgetown Bach Chorale starts off its season with A Change of Season — Autumn Concert at the Halton Hills Cultural Centre Gallery, 9 Church St., on Saturday, Oct. 25 at 8 p.m.

The Chorale will be singing with a chamber quintet consisting of both harpsichord and piano in turn with violin, viola, cello and double bass.

The Chorale's artistic director Ron Greidanus will be performing on the harpsichord and on his own nine-foot grand piano, which has been moved into the Gallery for this concert.

Featured in this concert are several works with choir, harpsichord and strings including Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring by Bach, Ave Verum by Mozart and Purcell's Rejoice in the Lord Always (also known as the Bell Carol), an interesting and regal sounding piece, consisting of instrumental movements enhanced by the choral responses.

Also, the audience will be treated to Schubert's Piano Quintet in A major, the famous The Trout, a set of variations for piano and strings based on Schubert's own delightful song Die Forelle.

Greidanus will follow by playing an etude, No. 12 in C minor and a nocturne, No. 1 in F major by Chopin.

Tickets are $20 and may be purchased at two locations in downtown: Foodstuffs and Young's Pharmacy. Tickets will also be available at the door.

The Chorale Series also includes: Advent Concert, Nov. 29 and 30 (Caledon East); Christmas Concert, Dec. 19 and 20; Menage a Trois— Piano Trio, March 26 and 27; Music for Good Friday, April 9; Chansons d'amour— Piano, Two Voices, April 18 and Gala Concert, May 1 and 2 (Caledon East).
