CITY TV's Bob Hunter to speak at POWER meeting tonight

CITY TV's Bob Hunter will be the speaker at Protect Our Water and Environmental Resources (POWER) Annual General Meeting tonight (Friday), at the Mold-Masters SportsPlex. This meeting is open to the public.

An ecology specialist, Hunter is a co-founder of Greenpeace, helped to found the Society for Pollution and Environmental Control and spearheaded a successful campaign to ban commercial whaling. Hunter is an award-winning author, columnist and lecturer.

"I have visited 34 countries in my journeys around the world, have swum underwater with dolphins, stood on ice in the path of an onrushing icebreaker, parachute jumped, dodged great white sharks ... faced angry mobs in Newfoundland, founded a religion, run with the bulls in Pamplona, survived numerous storms and other near-disasters at sea while commanding a converted minesweeper in the north Pacific, stuck my head in a killer whale's mouth and have nearly drowned... and now I'm working for Moses (Znaimer) on CityPulse. What a fabulous existence," he said.

Doors will open at 7 p.m. for displays and the meeting will start at 7:30 p.m.

President Barbara Halsall said that holding the meeting on a Friday night is a new departure for POWER but they were so thrilled to have Bob Hunter coming as a speaker that they were willing to accommodate him. Hunter is up at 4:30 a.m. week days for his Breakfast Television show so week nights are difficult.

POWER formed 15 years ago to stop a dump planned for the Acton Quarry but is more recently known for Trees 2000 which started as a millennium project and developed into the ongoing Future Forests. This successful ecological restoration project has provided over 6,000 student day trips since the spring of 2000.
