Georgetown to host 55-team Thanksgiving hockey tournament

When Georgetown's arena sat quiet during last year's Thanksgiving weekend and March Break, it marked the first time in more than 40 years that the Georgetown Minor Hockey Association or its predecessors had not hosted a tournament.

But one year of inactivity has proven to be one too many.

The organization, in conjunction with a local awards company Most Valuable Puck, will be back in action at Thanksgiving with The Best of the Best Hockey Challenge, a tournament for 55 atom, novice and peewee teams.

"Not having one last year was kind of a sting," said Most Valuable Puck's Steve Kessel, himself a hockey dad. "We had one of the best in North America with the bantam tournament. We hope to carry that on and maybe even break the bantam tournament record of 43 years. We want to grow it into something special."

This year's tournament will take place at the Mold-Masters SportsPlex and Memorial Arena but the hope is that it will eventually expand into Acton and Milton.

Kessel also wants to make the tournament an attraction beyond hockey. He said there is potential for tie-ins with the Harvest Festival in downtown Georgetown and they will offer on-ice incentives to stick around, including a tournament all-star game. And being the owner of an awards company, Kessel said every player will go home with a memento of their weekend.

"It's not going to be just your average tournament. It's not just going to be three games, show up and see you later. The worst thing is going three (games) and out and you don't even get a glass of water. We want to make sure they feel welcome and that they go home with something."

Play will begin on the Friday (Oct. 8) with championship games being held on the holiday Monday (Oct. 11)

FIT TIP

Have you forgotten how invigorated you feel after you've exercised? It's certainly easy to as the summer provides us with a great number of reasons for us to stray from our fitness routine. With the kids back at school and fall just around the corner, it's time to get back on track!

The key to helping you commit to fitness? ROUTINE! Make time for your daily dose of exercise. Schedule it for a time that works best for you. Ask yourself the following questions:

- What time of day do I feel my best?
- When am I least likely to be interrupted?
- How much time can I commit?
- What type of exercise do I most like to do?

These few simple questions will help you get in touch with "you" and generate some mind and body awareness which will help you to realistically "fall" back into fitness and most importantly enjoy it.
