

World competition is up next for Georgetown highland dancer competitive levels that fast," added McCarrol, "It's not easy to move up like that— she's hard working and had great faith in herself, which helped make the process a bit easier."

McCarrol is determined that Stephanie will be competing at the World Championships next year in Scotland.

"She's a great little dancer, and she has what it takes," said McCarrol, "I know she'll do well."

McCarrol is no stranger to instructing successful dancers in the highland dance world. Since 1987, dancers in her group have won 17 trophies at the Canadians, and she has taken four dancers to the World Championships, including Donna and Darlene Downey, Lee McKeown and Megan Allan. Allan came home with a third place win in the 1995 world championships.

And if the past couple of years are any indication, Stephanie Wright will be one more World Champion added to the list.

One-Act Festival

Georgetown Little Theatre will be presenting its fourth annual One-Act Festival September 16, 17 and 18 at John Elliott Theatre. This event offers many newcomers to the stage their first opportunity to direct, act or help backstage. Visit GLT's Web site at www.georgetownlittletheatre.ca for details, and call the Box Office, 905-877-3700 for tickets.

Paraguayan harpist

Norval Presbyterian Church will be hosting Paraguayan harpist Eduard Klassen at an evening of Christian instrumental music at the church Sept. 17, at 7:30 p.m. The harpist plays the Paraguayan folk harp, a traditional folk instrument that was influenced by the standard classical harp used by missionaries from Spain in the 17th century, and the native Paraguayans adapted it to their own use and design. There will be a free will offering.
