

Acton man charged in pharmacy hold-up

An Acton man was arrested in connection with the robbery at the Acton Pharma Plus in August.

Halton Regional Police's 11 Division Criminal Investigations Bureau made the arrest in Belleville yesterday (Tuesday) afternoon.

The robbery occurred August 8 when a man entered the store around 4:20 p.m. and handed an employee a note demanding drugs and saying that he had a gun. The man was given a quantity of a painkiller, OxyContin.

Halton Police say the suspect fled the Halton Hills area soon after the robbery and was located in Belleville on Thursday.

Charged with robbery is Robert Holmes, 36, of Acton. He will appear in Milton Provincial Court on today (Wednesday) for a bail hearing.

Town asks province for cut of gas tax cash

The Town of Halton Hills has sent a resolution to the province requesting that the gas tax be distributed to all Ontario municipalities. The provincial government had announced that it would dedicate 1 cent per litre of provincial gas tax to municipalities with public transit beginning in October 2004 and two cents per litre in 2005.

Mayor Rick Bonnette said that would create a system of "haves and have nots".

"This town does not have municipal transit system due to its high cost of implementation, however it does have a deteriorating road system," said Bonnette.

"We have the same issues, the same concerns and the same costs as any municipality that does have public transit."
