

Town to test electric vehicle

The Town of Halton Hills' public works department will test an electric vehicle for Halton Hills Hydro for about 30 to 60 days. SouthWestern Energy Inc., a subsidiary of Halton Hills Hydro Inc., has applied for funding to receive the vehicles and requested the town test one of them in its day-to-day operations. The only cost to the town will be a required written report after the evaluation period.

The public works department is requesting that the hydro company install a dedicated meter so that the vehicle's energy consumption can be truly evaluated. The vehicle, likely a full-size pickup, is capable of travelling at highway speeds and carrying similar loads to conventional gasoline-powered vehicles.
