Apartment available to help less fortunate

People in need of a place to stay in town for a short period of time now have an option in Georgetown after Halton Community Support and Information (HHCSI) recently began renting an apartment.

Thanks to $55,600 in funding for transitional housing from the Supporting Community Partnerships Initiative through Halton Region HHCSI took over the apartment on November 1. The funding is to cover through March 2006.

The two-bedroom furnished apartment is currently vacant and available for a family for up to two months.

Families have to pay some rent based on their income and must be able to participate in Halton Region's rent supplement program.

HHCSI also currently has two transitional housing apartments available in Acton as well, however, those are currently full and there is a waiting list.

To apply for the transitional housing in either Georgetown or Acton call HHCSI community support co-ordinator Cathy Gerrow at 519-853-3310.
