First Georgetown Beaver Nathan Wilson, 5, with dad, David, plant a tree at the annual Tree Planting Day at the Acton Quarry on Saturday. More than 12,000 trees were planted by 700 scouts, students, teachers and parents and Dufferin Aggregates staff during Earth Week celebrations at four quarries in Halton and Wellington County. "Planting trees is a wonderful way to celebrate Earth Week," said Ken Zimmerman, Lands Manager for Dufferin Aggregates. "At the Acton and Milton quarries these plantings are the final important step in rehabilitation of areas of the quarry that have been disturbed by quarry activities. Thanks to our enthusiastic volunteers, we will have planted over 65,000 trees at Milton over the past 13 years, and that area of the quarry has been turned back to nature with lots of wildlife. We are also delighted to be planting so many trees each year at the Acton Quarry, which we purchased in November 2001. Since then, we have planted more than 15,000 trees around the edge of the quarry and plant areas."

Dufferin Aggregates wins 19 awards for its work

Dufferin Aggregates, a major aggregate producer in the Greater Toronto Area, has received industry recognition with 19 awards from two North American associations.

Seven of the company's sites are involved: the Milton and Acton quarries in Milton and Halton Hills, Mill Creek and Aberfoyle pits in Puslinch, Carden quarry in the City of Kawartha Lakes, Mosport Pit in the Township of Clarington, and the Graham pit in North Dumfries.

The Aggregate Producers' Association of Ontario (APAO), presented Dufferin with nine awards.

Both the Milton and Acton quarries were presented with Progressive Rehabilitation Awards which recognize ongoing site rehabilitation.

The Acton and Milton quarries were also named as Dufferin received Community Relations Awards.

The National Stone, Sand & Gravel Association (NSSGA) presented Dufferin with 10 awards including again a Community Relations Award for the Milton Quarry. The Milton Quarry was also presented with a Environmental Eagle Award.

"We believe that an active community relations program and high quality site rehabilitation are the best ways to clearly demonstrate that our operations are an asset in any community," said Bill Galloway, general manager of Dufferin Aggregates.
