Actonians can become Voice of the Fair

New this year at the Acton Fall Fair, Voice of the Fair is the chance for aspiring young singers to show Acton their vocal talents on Sunday, Sept. 18.

This 11:30 a.m. competition is for children up to, and including, the age of 12—and is open to singers who have professional training and those who don't.

If there are more than five contestants with and without vocal training there will be two categories.

Contestants must live in Acton, or the surrounding areas of Rockwood, Limehouse or Ballinafad, or attend an Acton school.

All contestants will perform one three-minute song (make sure you are under three minutes). There will be a CD and cassette player for your music. The recordings should not contain any vocals so that the judges can clearly hear your talent.

Five finalists will be chosen, who will then perform a second time, again with a three-minute song (it could be the same song, or a different one).

Three winners will be chosen from the five finalists based on the second performance only.

The Acton Music Hall has donated one month of free lessons to the winner. Other prizes to be announced.

Contestants can sign up a half an hour before the competition starts on Sunday, September 18th. Space is limited to 20 contestants, so sign up early.

To register for this event, send your name, age, phone number, vocal teacher and number of years to:
