Jaguars' junior boys upset in volleyball quarterfinals

The Christ the King Jaguars dream season ran into a nightmare.

After finishing the season 9-1, the Jaguars' junior boys volleyball team was upset 25-22, 25-20 by St. Thomas Aquinas in Tuesday's Halton quarterfinal.

"They had one guy and he was everywhere," said Jags' coach Carla Favero. "He was blocking, they were setting him in the back court. He was all over."

Favero said the Jaguars inexperience may have hurt them a little too. After being blocked a few times they didn't attack as often.

"When we swung we won the points. When we didn't swing, we didn't," she said. "They're still young. They've just got to believe how good they are. With experience that confidence will come."

Though seven players will move up next season, Favero said it should give Christ the King a solid senior team. The seniors already have a good foundation with players like Jadon Veldman, Ben Flikkema and Andrew Albrecht. Adding graduating juniors J.J. Laforet, Chris Ackroyd and Ryan Shepherd should again help them contend.

Laforet, the team's offensive catalyst at power, played both playoff games with sprained fingers. Favero said Laforet helped raise the level of his teammates' game.
