

Charity
book sale
to aid
local groups

Fraser Direct is all set to open its doors, 8 a.m., for its annual charity book sale tomorrow (Saturday, Nov. 19).

Bargain hunters line up at 7 a.m., then race through the door at 8 a.m., buckets in hand, to purchase Christmas gifts featuring books on every subject.

The sale raises approximately $20,000 for local charities. This year, Fraser Direct will donate funds earned to Cancer Assistance Services of Halton Hills (CAS-hh), Salvation Army Christmas drive, the new Acton Skateboard Park, HHCSI for the Acton youth facility Off the Wall, Localmotion, Georgetown Hospital and other local charities.

Staff at Fraser Direct donate their time to set up and run the sale. It's lots of fun because of the huge volumes and the frantic atmosphere, which eventually calms down for shoppers who want to shop at a more leisurely pace in the afternoon.

The sale is at 100 Armstrong Ave. from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Please remember that shoppers must pay by cash or cheque. Come join in the fun and do a good deed at the same time.
