

Board to hold public meeting at GDHS tomorrow evening to discuss Capital Plan

The Halton District School Board will hold a second series of public meetings to review the proposed Capital Plan. The Plan is a long-term strategy addressing the accommodation needs of students in elementary and secondary schools.

The Halton Hills meeting has been scheduled for tomorrow (Thursday), 7-9 p.m. at Georgetown District High School cafeteria.

The Board held initial public meetings in February in each municipality to seek public input and comments on the proposed Plan. An interim report was presented to trustees at the Accommodation Committee meeting last week. This interim report will then be presented to the public at meetings throughout Halton.

This will provide an opportunity to explain modifications to the proposed Capital Plan and to seek feedback.
