Tips on controlling household bacteria

Bacteria thrive in warm and humid conditions and that's why conscientious individuals pay close attention to the cleanliness of their kitchens and bathrooms.

Did you know in fact, bacteria are so small that a line of 1,000 bacteria could fit within the size of a pencil eraser? Household germs linger where we least expect them and as a result, some of the most pro-active tips for keeping a healthy home in summer suggest a combination of good housecleaning practices with antibacterial agents and soaps. Take a look at this handy checklist for the mission, courtesy Mr. Clean and its Antibacterial Multi-Surfaces Spray, which, when used as directed, kills 99.9 per cent of household germs:

- Remove germs from kitchen countertops, sink basins, tile, and more. Food-contact surfaces must be rinsed thoroughly with potable water.
  - Spray and clean your household (and office) phones.
  - Clean the outside of your refrigerator, countertops, doors, and handles. This multi-purpose Mr. Clean spray is grease-cutting too.
  - Give your stove, dishwasher, microwave, and other appliances a streak-free, germ-free shine.
  - Clean your coffeemaker and stains on the burner.
  - Clean all your glass surfaces too. The spray is streak free, so there's no need to purchase any other cleaner for your glass.
