BACK TALK

By Dr. Gabor Madarasz

WOW!! Who would have guessed that my son Nathan and I would be in the waters of Mexico swimming with the majestic Whale Shark! I wish I could do a good job of describing not only the experience but also this incredible animal but I just can't. The idea of jumping in the water with sharks that are 20 to 30 feet still boggles my mind. Now granted, these animals are surface plankton feeders not interested in consuming humans however we decided to let our guides jump in first just in case. Once we were in the water our trick was to swim fast enough through the water to catch up and grasp the dorsal fin. I must say these sharks were very gracious because they let us hang on for several minutes as they circled around our boat with us holding on for dear life. As we were holding on through the water we watched in awe as the massive gills on the side of the shark opened and closed all the while pulling us along. We finally got back on the boat absolutely exhausted from all the swimming but also from the experience of spending time with these enormous animals. As we sped away from the dive site we just sat quietly trying to understand what had just happened. One thing I can say for sure is that I was able to come away with so much more appreciation for just what has been provided for us by way of creation. I know that I will have a big smile on my face for a long time to come after such an experience. Well, looks like we're back at the office to restore lives back home. We'll talk soon.
